Press Release

L'atelier des archives open to business in the U.K.

Created in 2004 by Thierry Rolland and Sylvie Gourdel l'Atelier des Archives is now one of the top 5 footage libraries in France.

Since 9 years l'Atelier des Archives has been collecting thousand of stories in the US Public Domain. These stories have been described digitized and are now accessible in the UK for downloading screeners.

L'Atelier des Archives has created a new model for giving access to these stories. Of course we don't charge Public Domain Footage like privately owned collections. Instead of charging per rolls or per clips our customers pay only for what they've used. The access fees is 7.5 €(6.3£) per seconds (with of 40 seconds minimum) for a documentary program for all types of transmissions whatever the duration and territories of rights requested.

Since 2013 users of our database can download screeners (with burnt in time code).

For the opening of the database <http://base.atelierdesarchives.com/> for English speaking users l'atelier des Archives is offering to researcher and archives producers a free access for downloading screeners.

L'Atelier des Archives is also representing more than 50 other collections (Amateur films, current affairs, documentaries, Stocks shots)
